FLOOD FEARS NOW ALARM PEOPLE OF EUROPE

MODERATING TEMPERATURES IN EVIDENCE

HEAVY, UNUSUAL SNOWFALLS 16 TO 20 FEET DEEP IN PAST WEEK

RIVERS, ALREADY HIGH, CANNOT CARRY BURDEN OF EXCESS MOISTURE

London, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Moderating temperatures through Europe brought fears of floods from thawing snows today and turned alarm over suffering to concern over crops, particularly wheat.

Heavy and unusual snowfalls for the past week, in some places as much as 16 to 20 feet deep, made it almost certain that the rivers, already high, could not carry away the water as the snows melted.

Inhabitants of villages in Dartmoor, England, were preparing to evacuate their homes. The thaw already had started there.

Wheat crops in England and France were believed to have been damaged severely by the cold, but Russia and Germany reported more encouraging prospects. Damage to the English wheat crops probably will stimulate imports.

Wheat crops in parts of France were ruined entirely. No damage to winter crops were reported in Germany today but the German department of agriculture feared the cold would delay planting of summer crops which should begin at the end of February.

Russia was covered with a snow blanket when the biting frosts arrived and the wheat crop there was protected.

It appeared today that the almost unprecedented cold wave had solved the labor problem, at least in the coal mining districts. Snowbound trains on the continent and England and consequently coal shortages in the big cities brought orders for coal which it was expected would require eight months to fill.

No further reports have been received here of the ferryboat Tyr, which advised yesterday it was ice-bound in the Great Belt Channel between Fyen and Zealand, with influenza spreading among 300 passengers. There were no physicians or medical supplies aboard.

Attempts were begun yesterday to reach the ferry, which had been ice-bound on the 75-minute crossing for two days and two nights.

The ice-jammed Wur in Germany had left its banks near Karlsruhe and Ormenzing, driving people from their homes and threatening public works.

A water allowance of one pint a person a day continued in Dartmoor and the district, isolated since Thursday by heavy snows, was suffering from lack of food. There has not been enough water for baths for ten days.

Even with the danger of floods many persons welcomed relief from the cold wave which has caused hundreds of deaths and untold suffering in the past eleven days.

Vienna, Feb. 19.—Many deaths in southern Jugo-Slavia, Macedonia, northern Greece and Thrace from disastrous floods were reported today in dispatches received here from Belgrade and Athens.

The cold wave has caused numerous deaths and untold suffering.

NORTHERN PACIFIC FILES ITS GROSS EARNINGS REPORT

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—(UP)—The Northern Pacific was the only one of seven railroads which filed gross earnings reports today for the last six months of 1928, to show increased gross earnings in Minnesota operations. GREATEST HUNT IN HISTORY FOR LITTLE GIRL

DORIS VIRGINIA MURPHY OF SAN FRANCISCO MISSING 90 HOURS

POLICE RESERVES CALLED OUT, REWARDS OF $4,500 HAVE BEEN OFFERED

San Francisco, Feb. 19.—(UP)—The greatest hunt in the history of San Francisco was under way today for Doris Virginia Murphy who has been missing more than 90 hours.

After a night of fruitless search for the four-year-old child, all available San Francisco police reserves were called out and ordered to join in the hunt. Rewards totalling $4,500 have been offered.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Murphy, have almost abandoned hope of seeing their daughter alive. The child was believed to have been lured away from a playground.

Little Doris was first missed Friday afternoon. Shortly after a note reading "You'll never find her," and signed "K. K." was found by a girl playmate near the Murphy home.

It was then the police search started—a search that has brought out hundreds of civilian volunteers. Only a few clues have been found, and they have been meager. Two suspects were arrested, but questioning failed to elicit information concerning Doris' disappearance.

Possibility that a woman may have been involved in the case was seen when a neighbor of the Murphy's told police she had seen "an old woman with a brown overcoat" with the child the afternoon she vanished.

Yesterday the parents received a letter advising them not to worry and saying the child would be returned on March 5.

4 COUNTIES PAY BULK OF STATE GAS TAX BILL

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Four Minnesota counties—Hennepin, Ramsey, St. Louis and Stearns—paid more than one-third of the $6,211,787 state gasoline tax bill in 1928, Hjalmar Nilson, chief oil inspector, announced here today.

These four counties, in which 127,644,603 gallons of gasoline were consumed, paid $2,552,891 gas tax, the Nilson report revealed.

The tax bill for the entire state was greatly increased last year compared to the $5,510,257 collected in 1927.

Hennepin county purchased the largest amount of gasoline, 57,313,057, and paid the greatest tax, $1,146,261.

In Ramsey county, $769,861 was paid in taxes on 38,493,055 gallons of gasoline.

St. Louis county purchased 21,992,358 gallons of gasoline and paid $439,857.

Stearns county's gas bill was $196,912 on 9,845,633 gallons of gasoline.

The smallest tax in the state was collected from Cook county which paid only $6,154 on 307,723 gallons of gasoline, a 10-fold increase, however, over the tax bill in 1927.

Dunn Cigaret Tax Bill Claimed by Author to be 'Painless', Others Say It's Nuisance Tax

REP. DUNN IS CONFIDENT IT WILL BE PASSED

CLAIMS $2,000,000 WILL BE RAISED ANNUALLY BY MEASURE

OTHER LEGISLATORS SAY IT PAVES WAY TO TAX CIGARS, CANDY, GUM, ETC.

By HECTOR PERRIER (United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—The Dunn cigarette-tax bill which has caused perhaps more discussion by the man-of-the-street than any other measure now before the state legislature was due to be put on the house of representatives battle field today.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Roy E. Dunn, Pelican Rapids, and which would provide for a 2-cent tax on cigarettes, will no doubt be brought out by a committee, without recommendation, for general debate.

Rep. Dunn contends that his measure will not only be passed by the house but by the senate as well and then signed by Governor Theodore Christianson.

Some $2,000,000 would be poured into the state treasury annually by the "painless" tax, Dunn said, and dealers would be put to little inconvenience in its collection.

There were, however, on the other hand many legislators opposed to the bill on the grounds that it is a "nuisance" such as the federal government aimed now to eliminate from its own books.

Many of the bill's opponents asked where such "nuisance" taxes would lead once they were begun. Cigars, candy, gum and other of the so-called luxuries might well be taxed as easily as cigarettes, they said, therefore the Dunn bill must be voted down.

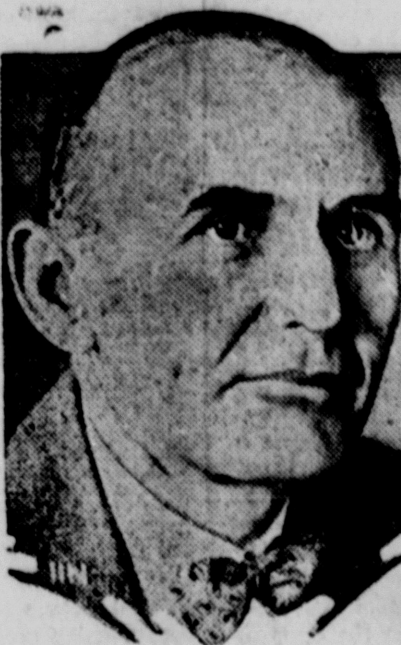

An impression existed, however, that the bill might survive the house storm but fall on the senate seas. At any rate a good fight is in prospect.

Other legislative matters claimed their share of attention in the house today following a brief but busy session Monday night.

FIVE CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM COLUMBUS JAIL

INCLUDE PAT McDERMOTT, THE "TRIGGER MAN" IN MURDER OF MELLETT

PRISONERS SAW FROM CELL AND SLIDE FROM ROOF ON ROPE MADE OF MATTRESS

Columbus, O., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Five convicts, among them Pat McDermott, "trigger man" in the murder of Don R. Mellett, editor of the Canton Daily News who was assassinated two years ago, escaped from the state penitentiary here early today.

The prisoners escaped from the third tier in a new cell block. After sawing away the bars of their cells, they made their way to the roof and slid to the ground on a rope improvised from an old mattress.

Seven other convicts were in the cells from which the prisoners escaped but they chose to remain.

Columbus, O., Feb. 19.—Working with clock-like precision and apparently by pre-arrangement, five convicts—among them Pat McDermott, slayer of Don R. Mellett—broke out of the state penitentiary at dawn today.

SAYS EVEN ARMY AND NAVY CAN'T ENFORCE DRY LAW

REP. ROBERT H. CLANCY, WET REPUBLICAN OF MICHIGAN, IN STATEMENT

SAYS 18TH AMENDMENT WILL BE FORGOTTEN, SAME AS THE 14TH AND 15TH

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 19.—Prohibition can not be enforced even with the use of the army and navy and within 10 years it will be forgotten, Rep. Robert H. Clancy, wet republican of Michigan, told the United Press today.

He said Rep. Sproul, republican of Kansas, who declared a new era in prohibition would develop within 10 years, was correct but that instead of the law becoming perfected it would be abandoned.

"It is virtually impossible to repeal or modify the prohibition law but the 18th amendment to the constitution will be forgotten and go by the boards in the same way the 14th and 15th amendments went," Clancy said.

"The more agents the government details for dry law work the more crime there will be. Already there are more than 1,000,000 bootleggers in the United States and this army is growing."

Clancy said within the next ten years congress will refuse to appropriate funds for prohibition work.

He said the government is losing more than $1,000,000,000 a year now in taxes from the sale of intoxicants. Clancy said prohibition kills temperance. Citing an example, he said in 1918 there were but 1,907 saloons in Detroit compared with 20,000 speakeasies today.

Steam Shovel Scoops up Service Line in Digging at O'Brien Construction

Part of the basement excavation of the block on the southwest corner of Broadway and Laurel street under construction for Con O'Brien to house the Brainerd branch store of Montgomery-Ward was flooded yesterday afternoon when the steam shovel operator in scooping dirt tore out a two inch service line from the water main on Laurel street.

Repairs to the line hindered work at the building yesterday afternoon and today.

This morning a surface of ice covered part of the area.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS ACTIVITIES

The Oawensa Camp Fire girls had a very interesting time at our last meeting. Eighteen girls were present. The guardian gave us a test on naming 20 birds. Ten girls passed the test. Marcella Pavrou and Marion Falconer could name 35 birds so they earned two nature beads.

Then we had a flag test as follows: How many red stripes are in the flag?

How many white stripes are in the flag?

How many stars are in the flag?

What do the stars stand for?

When is the flag hung half mast?

Who made the first flag?

When is flag day?

How should the flag be hung when flat against a wall?

What is the national anthem?

Who wrote it?

Eight girls passed this test and earned a red, white and blue bead.

Friday after school 17 of the Oawensa girls hiked to the skating rink, carrying their skates, skis and toboggans.

We took several kodak pictures.

Margaret Gustafson did some fine fancy skating for us.

One of the girls skated 24 times around the rink.

When she has gone about ten times more around the rink, she earns a red bead for health.

Then we all hiked back to the Harrison school and had such a fine meal—prepared by six girls who are working for their firemakers rank.

Miss Caniff and Miss Caughey were the guests.

Miss Caughey gave us a talk on the constellations and later we went outdoors and located every one, thereby earning a blue nature bead.

Two of the girls made very pretty place cards for the table and so earned a green hand craft bead.

We then danced our jolly folk dance till time to go home.

they will present in the near future "Our Aunt From California."

Abie's Irish Rose Now in Film

"Abie's Irish Rose" is now a movie. The world's most successful play, the play which ran on Broadway, New York, for more than five years, has been translated to the screen, and is scheduled to open at the Lyceum theatre on Wednesday for three days.

The story of "Abie's Irish Rose," which was written and originally produced by Anne Nichols, is one of tremendous theme. It tells of the love of a Jewish lad for an Irish girl, and how they overcome the intolerance of their orthodox parents.

EXCAVATION FLOODED

Steam Shovel Scoops up Service Line in Digging at O'Brien Construction

Part of the basement excavation of the block on the southwest corner of Broadway and Laurel street under construction for Con O'Brien to house the Brainerd branch store of Montgomery-Ward was flooded yesterday afternoon when the steam shovel operator in scooping dirt tore out a two inch service line from the water main on Laurel street.

Repairs to the line hindered work at the building yesterday afternoon and today.

This morning a surface of ice covered part of the area.

NORMA SHEARER and JOHN BACK BROWN in "A LADY OF CHANCE"

She was a crafty little gold digger until—

Until a handsome young man came along and stole her heart just when she was trying her best to get rid of him.

That, in a few words, is a gist of the story of "A Lady of Chance," which, with Norma Shearer as its scintillating star, is the attraction now at the Lyceum theatre.

A FARMER'S VIEWS ON COUNTY ASSESSOR SYSTEM

T. T. HAALAND of Deerwood township, in conversation at the Dispatch office, said he saw in the Minneapolis Journal of February 7 that the State Tax Commission urges the county assessor system and also repeal of the $100 exemption on personal property and that it is being considered by the legislature.

"I wish to remark," said Mr. Haaland, "that I have served on our town board for 11 years. We always had some corrections to make on our assessor's work because the assessors were not well enough acquainted all over the township. I resigned from the board and filed for assessor. I have now assessed our town for four consecutive years and the town board has not changed one item of my work. I have been a resident of our township for 34 years and I know the location of every forty acres.

"I wish some of those who recommend and work for one County Assessor would come to my town as I would like to take them to the wildest part of the township, and put you on a section corner where the surveying was done more than 40 years ago. There are no signs or posts or lines there. I leave you to run up the lines and place a fair valuation on each of those forties.

"No. 1 is fair land, worth about $15 an acre. No. 2 is fair land with good timber worth $35 an acre. No. 3 is hilly and stony worth $5 an acre. No. 4 is all marsh land worth nothing. No. 5 is half upland and half marsh with pot holes. No. 6 is one-third or one-half lakes. I don't know how long it would take a stranger to run up the lines and locate this kind of country. Now don't you think it may be a good job for a stranger to be County Assessor?"

"The H. F. No. 197 Therrien-Merritt bill raising town or county assessors pay from $4 to $5 per day is strongly opposed by the freeholders. Four dollars a day is a fair pay. Now then, the only thing for the freeholders of each village and town to do is to select an assessor that will treat everyone alike and has good judgment in placing a fair valuation on all kinds of lands and structures. To those who favor the one County Assessor idea, I wish to say why not leave it to the Governor to appoint the whole army of all the state officers, legislative members and county and town officers, and why not take all the constitutional rights away from the freeholders so that all they would have left to do will be to pay the taxes."

It may be stated that the $100 exemption on personal property has not been changed, the legislature voting down a repeal.

FARMERS USE HIGHWAYS

THE increase in livestock trucking is very noticeable, indicating the farmers are using highways more and more to facilitate direct farm to market shipments. Quoting from a highway department bulletin truck shipments of livestock to South St. Paul in 1928 totaled 79,227 loads, or 114,895 head of cattle, 143,231 calves, 423,363 hogs, 80,902 sheep and 504 horses or a total of 772,895 animals, according to the annual report of the Union Stockyards Co.

In 1927 the trucked in receipts were 64,168 loads with 597,660 head of livestock. The increase in the number of animals in 1928 over 1927 was 27 per cent.

Improvement of the highways since the trunk route plan was put into effect has facilitated marketing of all farm products. There has been a rapid increase of direct farm-to-market shipping of livestock. In 1920 only 65,249 animals were trucked into the South St. Paul yards, less than one-tenth of the 1928 total.

The livestock hauled to South St. Paul is only a small part of the livestock carried by truck over the state highways. Smaller packing houses in several cities in Minnesota get the bulk of their animals by truck direct from the farms. Most of the stock which is shipped by rail is carried by truck from the farms to the shipping point.

The size of the loads is increasing each year, due to improved roads. In 1923 the average was 7 animals per load, in 1928 the average number per load was 9.7 animals.

Livestock shipping is only one of many factors contributing to the rapid growth of traffic on the highways. Dairy, poultry and garden products are carried long distances by truck, to the advantage of both producer and consumer.

Many gravel roads which were excellent highways six or eight years ago are only fair or poor today. Increased traffic is the cause, and according to the above figures, it is not all pleasure traffic.

A DISCRIMINATORY IMMIGRATION CLAUSE

ANY immigration law which places undue restriction on the influx of nationalities that have proven their worth and importance in the upbuilding of the nation is absurd on the face of it.

Senators Nye and Shipstead have been among the few who have recognized this absurdity in the proposed national origins section of the immigration law, and are doggedly opposing its passage. President-elect Hoover, while secretary of commerce, also opposed making the clause effective.

The new national origins section would discriminate against Scandinavians and other Nordic peoples in preference to elements who have taken a less important part in American life. Anyone cognizant of the story of the northwest must recognize the fallacy of paring down the Nordic quota, for it is this sturdy strain which has contributed, in large part, the strength and vitality that have made the northwest what it is today.

The northwest stands behind Senators Nye and Shipstead in assailing this utterly unreasonable clause. It is not merely a matter of loyalty to the nationalities which have made their home in this region; it is a matter of common sense in immigration laws. The Nordics have made fine and useful Americans in the past—why discriminate against them now?—Minneapolis Star.

THERE is little warm weather in the temperate zone, or shall we say temperate, so far as present climate is concerned. A warm spell has settled in the frigid zone and Greenland, Iceland and northern Norway are complaining of the heat.

BRAINERD TAKES TWO SECONDS IN DECLAM CONTEST

The annual sub-district Declamatory contest was held last Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Old Court House assembly in the presence of an audience of about four hundred people.

The Brainerd contestants did not fare as well as they did last year, there being but two second places and one third in comparison to the two first places and the one second of a year ago.

In the oratorical section the following people delivered these orations:

John W. Jacobs of Motley, "Americanism," Wilfred Bolduck of Crosby "President Wilson's Address," Vernon Bass "A Man for the Ages," Ernest Johnson of Pequot "America a World Power," and Zane Smith of Brainerd "Return America."

First place was taken by Wilfred Bolduck of Crosby with John Jacobs of Motley and Zane Smith of Brainerd second and third respectively.

In the dramatic class Luverne Gustafson of Pequot gave "Prisoner's Statement," Luella Lundblad of Aitkin "Yellow Butterflies," Ruth Hayes of Motley "Daddy Doc," Helene Marie Stadlbauer of Brainerd "Pale Hands of Telam" and Helen Hanson of Crosby gave "Peter and the Angels."

Ruth Hayes of Motley received first place with Helene Marie Stadlbauer of Brainerd taking second.

In the humorous division the following contestants delivered the following selections:

Ramona Glasmauer of Pequot, "Who's Afraid," Mildred Prentice of Brainerd "The School Program," Dorothy Flavers of Aitkin "The Medicine Closet," Ellis Kluspaugh of Motley "Tommy Skews Scrubs Up," and Myrtle Machon of Crosby the same selection.

The first award was voted to Ramona Glasmauer of Pequot and Mildred Prentice of Brainerd took second.

The event was very well attended and about $45 was taken in to pay expenses.

BUTTERFLIES, CATS OFFERED IN CONTEST

We should, I suppose, prepare to hear our team called the "Butterflies" or possibly the "Cats."

Suppose now, that you are Mr. Kasch. Perhaps that is too much to suppose, but try it anyway. Allright, a sophomore of such brilliant wit and high ideals that his idea of a revenge for an insult is to slip up in the night and cut his enemy's shoe string, arrives and hands you (remember now, you're Mr. Kasch) a paper on which is written a name.

The Soph stands there while you read it, evidently waiting for you to burst out in wild rejoicing because of this wonderful term. If you don't smile and say "This will probably be chosen," the Soph gives you a glance as cold as an iron bridge on New Year's Eve and leaves, possibly heart broken, probably resolved to commit suicide or something and maybe will go so far toward accomplishing that purpose as to cut his finger while preparing a meal for his best talking doll.

If by this time you (Mr. Kasch, you still are, you know) survive, your brain is so befuddled that you are willing to select any name. The question is, what have you?

GIRLS' OCTET FEATURES PROGRAM AT CITY HALL

Appearing for the first time before an assembly of high school pupils, the girls' double quartet, under the direction of Miss Rickard were heartily applauded for their efforts to make the Lincoln's birthday program, held at the City Hall last Tuesday afternoon, a success. Sharing honors with the quartet were Marjorie Forsberg, who presented two musical readings which were well received, and Margaret Holm, who read an excellent patriotic short story.

Community singing, which is now a welcome part of any student gathering, also helped to round out the afternoon's program. Other contributors to the program were Howard Gile, trombonist; Mery Hawkins, who told of the events leading up to the Gettysburg address; and Carl Holvick who recited the address itself.

JUNIOR HI-Y TO HAVE FATHER, SON BANQUET

A meeting of the Junior Hi-Y was called to order at 6:30 Wednesday, at the Y. M. C. A. parlors. The question of having a Fathers' and Sons' Banquet was brought up, but it was decided they would settle the question at the next meeting. The members of the club also considered the topic of having a joint party of some kind with the Senior Hi-Y. They did not reach a definite conclusion, but would do so at the next meeting. After the business meeting they spent some time in studying "Life of Christ."

The meeting adjourned at 7:30.

HIGH SCHOOL ORATORS ADDRESS HI-Y MEMBERS

Ross Olmsted and Zane Smith furnished the high lights of the program presented at the weekly Senior Hi-Y meeting, Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. Ross declared his oration "Our Heroic Dead" which won him second place in the local elimination contest and Zane who was given first award recited "Return America."

The discussion of a current problem scheduled for this meeting was postponed until the next weekly gathering. Ross Olmsted will lead the round table topics at that time.

JR. BUNCO PARTY PROVES SUCCESS

Games, refreshments and good times were the three main issues of the Junior party Saturday evening at the old court house, very much enjoyed by everyone present. It was a Valentine party with place cards and decorations to correspond with the occasion.

The game that occupied the majority of the evening was the famous game of bunco. The gentle breezes blowing through the lower hall wherein the tables were crowded did not dampen the ardor of the guests for they were too active to notice drafts and inconveniences. Many of the students seemed to be very proficient in throwing the dice, and whenever a scream or an outburst of voices was heard it meant either a bunco or a demand for the whistle to blow so that they could move to the next table.

Prizes were awarded to the best boy bunco player who was Roland Jenkins, the best girl player who was Alice Lind, and last but not least a prize was awarded to Patricia Zwicky with hopes she will do better next time.

Refreshments were served consisting of cream puffs and cocoa, the former filled with ice cream covered with chocolate. Vaults may be used for purposes other than safeguarding valuables and this was especially true Saturday night when Miss O'Brien prepared the cocoa in and dispensed it from the office vault's narrow confines. These were gladly received after such an exciting evening; after which everyone left for home tired and happy, and the general verdict was that this was the most successful party that the Junior class has ever held.

YE EDITOR

With a sigh of mingled regret and relief, ye editor lays down his pen—regret that he no longer can find time to continue his editorial duties, relief that dependable fellows, with the welfare of the Brainerdian at heart, are to take his place. The former sports editor, Roger Kleven, and the former junior reporter, Zane Smith, have been chosen on their merits to pilot the Brainerdian for the remainder of the term and next year one of them will be given the position of editor-in-chief. Ye editor feels sure that they will carry on with enthusiasm and efficiency.

He is glad also to call attention to the promotion of Ross Olmsted from the ranks to the new junior reporter. He urges all boys on the staff to strive earnestly for the sports editorship which is open to all comers.

Ye editor, who now becomes Annual associate editor, will maintain his interest in the Brainerdian at all times and will occasionally contribute an article or two, for the sake of Auld Lang Syne. He wishes the staff success in all its ventures and spreads his editorial mantle on the capable shoulders of his successors as a parting congratulatory salute.

B. H. S. DEFEATED BY C.-I. IN A FAST CAGE BATTLE 29-21

Crosby-Inton pushed the Brainerd quintet a point lower Friday, by defeating the Blue and White team 29-21. The B. H. S. aggregation, although trailing the C.-I. tossers throughout the contest, never lost heart and kept up the fight until the end. In the third quarter Brainerd displayed some real basketball and had they played up to this standard through the entire game the outcome would probably have been different. In the other three quarters Brainerd failed in most of its short shots, after having worked the ball down near the basket. For Brainerd no individual stars can be mentioned, the team working together as a unit to contribute to the scoring.

Brainerd was well represented by fans and although the team was defeated it was very encouraging to hear the shouts of the local rooters who did their best without a leader. Last week at a meeting of the representatives of the district high schools it was announced that Brainerd would play its first tournament game with Wadena on Feb. 28, and if they are victorious in this contest, they will meet the winner of the Staples-Pine River clash.

Good Sportsmanship
Good sportsmanship requires that students and players:
Keep the rules.
Keep faith with their comrades.
Keep their tempers.
Keep themselves fit.
Keep stout hearts in defeat.
Keep pride under in victory.
Keep clean minds, healthy bodies and sound souls.
PLAY THE GAME.

There was a feeling of intense excitement as the cars started out for C.-I. "It'll be a hard struggle for Brainerd," said a person near by, "but if we don't win, I know the boys will be doing their best."

We arrived there at 7, quickly got rid of the car in a near by garage. We got seats in the main floor instead of having to sit in the balcony, but the seats we took also caused trouble, for every now and then aspiring pupils started eating peanuts and jumping up and down in front of us. On came the team with a spirit that seemed as though to cry "Never say die."

During the latter part of the game Fuller, who was in center of the floor, made a keen basket amid loud cheering.

At one time the score was 16-13—C.-I. in the lead.

The second team was put in later. About five minutes before the bell rang, C.-I. started stalling while Brainerd could accomplish nothing. There should be a law against stalling especially when our team is going strongly. But bang! went the gun and the game was over.

MRS. BURNETT READS IN LINCOLN PROGRAM

Lower classmen received a most pleasant surprise last Tuesday in the form of a patriotic reading called "The Fleet Goes By," given by Mrs. C. L. Burnett at the Lincoln's birthday program. The students were quite honored to have Mrs. Burnett, as she is a very prominent speaker in the Drama League of this city.

Besides this, Esther Kukkola showed some remarkable talent at the piano. Miss Kukkola played "Southern Dreams," and the applause was so vociferous she had to favor the audience with another selection. Mary Hawkins and Carl Holvick showed their oratorical ability also. Mary giving the introduction to the Gettysburg address, and Carl, the address itself.

A number of songs were sung by the assembly, and after Miss Tornstrom made a few announcements, school was dismissed.

Did you hear about the accident in Scotland?

No, what was it?

Two taxicabs collided and twenty Scotchmen were hurt.

MRS. HARTLEY GUEST AT TRI-HI MEETING

Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley, county superintendent of schools, was the guest at the regular Tri-Hi meeting held Monday night, at the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Hartley discussed the growth of schools in Crow Wing county and gave special attention to the Crosby-Inton school. She also talked of the hardships endured by several boys and girls in the county in order to receive an education.

The girls certainly enjoyed Mrs. Hartley's talk and they hope she will come again.

'SAUCE FOR GOSLINGS' S. P. C. PRESENTATION

"Sauce for the Goslings," a short, one-act comedy, is to feature the next evening meeting of the Semper Paratus club on Thursday, February 28. A unique and extremely amusing method of handling the younger generation in reference to the use of "slang" provides a deep and intricate plot!

The cast includes:
Alice Peterson—Elizabeth Taylor.
Ross Olmsted—Bobby Taylor.
Ruth Schwartz—Mrs. Taylor.
David Weber—Mr. Taylor.
Richard Ebert—Jimmy Ward.
Ruth Kunitz—Grandmother.
Club members—don't fail to reserve Thursday evening, February 28th. The program includes several other numbers besides the play—and it is rumored that there will be something to eat!

CANDY SALE NETS PROFITS FOR JRS.

Candy sales in the high school are very successful as was the Junior sale which was held last Friday at the old court house and the city hall, during the entire day. Much candy was sold and the Junior Class wishes to thank all of the people who cooperated in the success of the sale.

The home made candy was especially fine for at the second period almost the whole amount was gone. This goes to prove that the lure of candy is strong even to those with ample curves. After the second period other candies and bars were sold with marvelous success so that when the day had ended a goodly sum had been collected to make the sale worth while. Even at the end of the seventh period the class was not able to supply the wants of many of the students. On the next like occasion the Juniors will endeavor to have an ample supply for everyone.

Pep tests were held Friday afternoon at the close of school to cheer the basketball team on its way to Crosby, in the Old Court House and the City Hall. Coach Kasch, who was present at the Old Court House was called upon for an impromptu speech and urged co-operation on the part of the rooters who are to accompany the team to the scene of battle. Then with the old song, "Go Brainerd High School," sung with much gusto by the students, still ringing in the welkin, the team departed with the determination to do its best in spite of all handicaps which have been its lot ever since the season began.

'YOUNGEST' PROVES A RIOTOUS SUCCESS IN TUES. SHOWING

The Senior Class Play presented last Tuesday evening at the Park Theatre was a decided success from the standpoint of acting and also because of the play itself, "The Youngest," which is one of Philip Barry's best comedy dramas. The plot concerns itself with the inner workings of the Winslow family and the subsequent reformation of "The Youngest."

The curtain rises on the drawing room just in time to let the audience know that Richard (William McClenahan) wants to write and simply won't work. Carl Zapffe, as big, faithful Oliver Winslow, with his mother's "advice and consent" cuts the aspiring author's allowance in half until such time as Dick decides to come to his senses and take a position in the family pin factory. The youthful prodigal's brother-in-law, Allan, played by Malcolm Ellison, and his brother, Mark, played by Ralph Anderson, as well as his sister Augusta, Allan's wife, played by Helen Marie Stadlbauer, join in heartily, telling each other that it's "for his own good." His sister, Muff, portrayed by Ellen Berglund, is the only one kindly disposed toward his literary dreams. In the middle of the squabble Richard comes in and submissively takes his halved allowance together with the command to vacate his room for a guest coming that afternoon. He enters again some ten minutes later to find that the "sap-headed society celebrity" has arrived. He is again ordered around by the rest of the family. The guest, Nancy Blake, who is impersonated by Mildred Prentice, is impressed by his potential powers and makes a bet with Muff that she, Nancy, can make a lion out of the mouse in a week.

Immediately after the bet has been closed Richard comes into the room carrying his small puppy. Nancy draws him into conversation with the subject of dogs and after flattering him very subtly forces him to ask her to the club dance. They leave and the three brothers flop coins to see who is taking the house guest to the ball when Richard calmly enters and informs them that he is to be her escort. The maid, Amanda Holmes, announces dinner just as Richard makes this electrifying statement.

The second act shows Nancy flattering the brothers and persuading them to cut Richard's allowance altogether and to burn his books. Allan tells Richard that by a mere technicality Richard has legal control over the finances of the whole family. In the meantime Richard finds his allowance cut off and decides to ruin the family. He tries to get Oliver to listen to him but the big brother is too engrossed in learning his speech to be given that afternoon. Richard is furious at being snubbed again so he tears up Oliver's speech and delivers the address himself saying the opposite of what the family wants him to. The curtain falls just as the family jumps on him for his oration. In the third act Richard takes charge of the family finances. Nancy, fearing that the situation has gone beyond her power, asks him to give the money back. He does gracefully, but the mother, Evodia Carlson, asks him to take control of the family instead of Oliver. He consents, but half-heartedly, after Mark tells him that Nancy has been playing with him. The last ten minutes of the play are given to Nancy's confession and Richard's relenting, with his declaration of independence as the climax.

A FARMER'S VIEWS ON COUNTY ASSESSOR SYSTEM

T. T. HAALAND of Deerwood township, in conversation at the Dispatch office, said he saw in the Minneapolis Journal of February 7 that the State Tax Commission urges the county assessor system and also repeal of the $100 exemption on personal property and that it is being considered by the legislature.

"I wish to remark," said Mr. Haaland, "that I have served on our town board for 11 years. We always had some corrections to make on our assessor's work because the assessors were not well enough acquainted all over the township. I resigned from the board and filed for assessor. I have now assessed our town for four consecutive years and the town board has not changed one item of my work. I have been a resident of our township for 34 years and I know the location of every forty acres.

"I wish some of those who recommend and work for one County Assessor would come to my town as I would like to take them to the wildest part of the township, and put you on a section corner where the surveying was done more than 40 years ago. There are no signs or posts or lines there. I leave you to run up the lines and place a fair valuation on each of those forties.

"No. 1 is fair land, worth about $15 an acre. No. 2 is fair land with good timber worth $35 an acre. No. 3 is hilly and stony worth $5 an acre. No. 4 is all marsh land worth nothing. No. 5 is half upland and half marsh with pot holes. No. 6 is one-third or one-half lakes. I don't know how long it would take a stranger to run up the lines and locate this kind of country. Now don't you think it would be a good job for a stranger to be County Assessor?"

"The H. F. No. 197 Therrien-Merritt bill raising town or county assessors pay from $4 to $5 per day is strongly opposed by the freeholders. Four dollars a day is a fair pay. Now then, the only thing for the freeholders of each village and town to do is to select an assessor that will treat everyone alike and has good judgment in placing a fair valuation on all kinds of lands and structures. To those who favor the one County Assessor idea, I wish to say why not leave it to the Governor to appoint the whole army of all the state officers, legislative members and county and town officers, and why not take all the constitutional rights away from the freeholders so that all they would have left to do will be to pay the taxes."

It may be stated that the $100 exemption on personal property has not been changed, the legislature voting down a repeal.

FARMERS USE HIGHWAYS

THE increase in livestock trucking is very noticeable, indicating the farmers are using highways more and more to facilitate direct farm to market shipments. Quoting from a highway department bulletin truck shipments of livestock to South St. Paul in 1928 totaled 79,227 loads, or 114,895 head of cattle, 143,231 calves, 423,363 hogs, 80,902 sheep and 504 horses or a total of 772,895 animals, according to the annual report of the Union Stockyards Co.

In 1927 the trucked in receipts were 64,168 loads with 597,660 head of livestock. The increase in the number of animals in 1928 over 1927 was 27 per cent.

Improvement of the highways since the trunk route plan was put into effect has facilitated marketing of all farm products. There has been a rapid increase of direct farm-to-market shipping of livestock. In 1920 only 65,249 animals were trucked into the South St. Paul yards, less than one-tenth of the 1928 total.

The livestock hauled to South St. Paul is only a small part of the livestock carried by truck over the state highways. Smaller packing houses in several cities in Minnesota get the bulk of their animals by truck direct from the farms. Most of the stock which is shipped by rail is carried by truck from the farms to the shipping point.

The size of the loads is increasing each year, due to improved roads. In 1923 the average was 7 animals per load, in 1928 the average number per load was 9.7 animals.

Livestock shipping is only one of many factors contributing to the rapid growth of traffic on the highways. Dairy, poultry and garden products are carried long distances by truck, to the advantage of both producer and consumer.

Many gravel roads which were excellent highways six or eight years ago are only fair or poor today. Increased traffic is the cause, and according to the above figures, it is not all pleasure traffic.

A DISCRIMINATORY IMMIGRATION CLAUSE

ANY immigration law which places undue restriction on the influx of nationalities that have proven their worth and importance in the upbuilding of the nation is absurd on the face of it.

Senators Nye and Shipstead have been among the few who have recognized this absurdity in the proposed national origins section of the immigration law, and are doggedly opposing its passage. President-elect Hoover, while secretary of commerce, also opposed making the clause effective.

The new national origins section would discriminate against Scandinavians and other Nordic peoples in preference to elements who have taken a less important part in American life. Anyone cognizant of the story of the northwest must recognize the fallacy of pining down the Nordic quota, for it is this sturdy strain which has contributed, in large part, the strength and vitality that have made the northwest what it is today.

The northwest stands behind Senators Nye and Shipstead in assailing this utterly unreasonable clause. It is not merely a matter of loyalty to the nationalities which have made their home in this region; it is a matter of common sense in immigration laws. The Nordics have made fine and useful Americans in the past—why discriminate against them now?—Minneapolis Star.

THERE is little warm weather in the temperate zone, or shall we say intemperate, so far as present climate is concerned. A warm spell has settled in the frigid zone and Greenland, Iceland and northern Norway are complaining of the heat.

BRAINERD TAKES TWO SECONDS IN
DECLAM CONTEST

The annual sub-district Declamatory contest was held last Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Old Court House assembly in the presence of an audience of about four hundred people.

The Brainerd contestants did not fare as well as they did last year, there being but two second places and one third in comparison to the two first places and the one second of a year ago.

In the oratorical section the following people delivered these orations:

John W. Jacobs of Motley, "Americanism," Wilfred Bolduck of Crosby "President Wilson's Address," Vernon Bass "A Man for the Ages," Ernest Johnson of Pequot "America a World Power," and Zane Smith of Brainerd "Return America."

First place was taken by Wilfred Bolduck of Crosby with John Jacobs of Motley and Zane Smith of Brainerd second and third respectively.

In the dramatic class Laverne Gustafson of Pequot gave "Prisoner's Statement," Luella Lundblad of Aitkin "Yellow Butterflies," Ruth Hayes of Motley "Daddy Doc," Helene Marie Stadlbauer of Brainerd "Pale Hands of Telam," and Helen Hanson of Crosby gave "Peter and the Angels."

Ruth Hayes of Motley received first place with Helene Marie Stadlbauer of Brainerd taking second.

In the humorous division the following contestants delivered the following selections:

Ramona Glasmauer of Pequot, "Who's Afraid," Mildred Prentice of Brainerd "The School Program," Dorothy Flaxers of Aitkin "The Medicine Closet," Elsie Kispangh of Motley "Tommy Skews Scrubs Up," and Myrtle Machon of Crosby the same selection.

The first award was voted to Ramona Glasmauer of Pequot and Mildred Prentice of Brainerd took second.

The event was very well attended and about $45 was taken in to pay expenses.

BUTTERFLIES, CATS
OFFERED IN CONTEST

We should, I suppose, prepare to hear our team called the "Butterflies" or possibly the "Cats."

Suppose now, that you are Mr. Kasch. Perhaps that is too much to suppose, but try it anyway. Allright, a sophomore of such brilliant wit and high ideals that his idea of a revenge for an insult is to slip up in the night and cut his enemy's shoe string, arrives and hands you (remember now, you're Mr. Kasch) a paper on which is written a name.

The Soph stands there while you read it, evidently waiting for you to burst out in wild rejoicing because of this wonderful term. If you don't smile and say "This will probably be chosen," the Soph gives you a glance as cold as an iron bridge on New Year's Eve and leaves, possibly heart broken, probably resolved to commit suicide or something and maybe will go so far toward accomplishing that purpose as to cut his finger while preparing a meal for his best talking doll.

If by this time you (Mr. Kasch, you still are, you know) survive, your brain is so befuddled that you are willing to select any name. The question is, what have you?

EXCHANGE

The Juniors of Glencoe high school participated in a sleigh ride party last week. A good time was had by all.

The Sophomores of Wadena high school, Wadena, Minn., presented a realistic drama called, "Dear Departed," by Stanley Houghton.

Four students of the Washington Junior high school, Duluth, Minn., wrote letters to President-elect Herbert Hoover urging him to pass the St. Lawrence bill.

"Once in a Blue Moon" will be presented by the Glee Clubs of Alexandria, Minn. This was also presented here in 1927 by our Glee club.

The Lake City high school has entered the Minnesota State Music Contest which will be held at Rochester, Minn., May 4, 1929.

Mrs. Hartley discussed the growth of schools in Crow Wing county and gave special attention to the Crosby-Brainerd school. She also talked of the hardships endured by several boys and girls in the county in order to receive an education.

The girls certainly enjoyed Mrs. Hartley's talk and they hope she will come again.

CANDY SALE NETS
PROFITS FOR JRS.

Candy sales in the high school are very successful as was the Junior sale which was held last Friday at the old court house and the city hall, during the entire day. Much candy was sold and the Junior Class wishes to thank all of the people who cooperated in the success of the sale.

The home made candy was especially fine for at the second period almost the whole amount was gone. This goes to prove that the lure of candy is strong even to those with ample curves. After the second period other candies and bars were sold with marvelous success so that when the day had ended a goodly sum had been collected to make the sale worth while. Even at the end of the seventh period the class was not able to supply the wants of many of the students. On the next like occasion the Juniors will endeavor to have an ample supply for everyone.

Pep tests were held Friday afternoon at the close of school to cheer the basketball team on its way to Crosby, in the Old Court House and the City Hall. Coach Kasch, who was present at the Old Court House was called upon for an impromptu speech and urged co-operation on the part of the rooters who are to accompany the team to the scene of battle. Then with the old song, "Go Brainerd High School," sung with much gusto by the students, still ringing in the welkin, the team departed with the determination to do its best in spite of all handicaps which have been its lot ever since the season began.

'YOUNGEST' PROVES
A RIOTOUS SUCCESS
IN TUES. SHOWING

The Senior Class Play presented last Tuesday evening at the Park Theatre was a decided success from the standpoint of acting and also because of the play itself, "The Youngest," which is one of Philip Barry's best comedy dramas. The plot concerns itself with the inner workings of the Winslow family and the subsequent reformation of "The Youngest."

The curtain rises on the drawing room just in time to let the audience know that Richard (William McClenahan) wants to write and simply won't work. Carl Zapffe, as big, faithful Oliver Winslow, with his mother's "advice and consent" cuts the aspiring author's allowance in half until such time as Dick decides to come to his senses and take a position in the family pin factory. The youthful prodigal's brother-in-law, Allan, played by Malcolm Ellison, and his brother, Mark, played by Ralph Anderson, as well as his sister Augusta, Allan's wife, played by Helen Marie Stadlbauer, join in heartily, telling each other that it's "for his own good." His sister, Muff, portrayed by Elsie Berglund, is the only one kindly disposed toward his literary dreams. In the middle of the squabble Richard comes in and submissively takes his halved allowance together with the command to vacate his room for a guest coming that afternoon. He enters again some ten minutes later to find that the "sap-headed society celebrity" has arrived. He is again ordered around by the rest of the family. The guest, Nancy Blake, who is impersonated by Mildred Prentice, is impressed by his potential powers and makes a bet with Muff that she, Nancy, can make a lion out of the mouse in a week.

Immediately after the bet has been closed Richard comes into the room carrying his small puppy. Nancy draws him into conversation with the subject of dogs and after flattering him very subtly forces him to ask her to the club dance. They leave and the three brothers flop coins to see who is taking the house guest to the ball when Richard calmly enters and informs them that he is to be her escort. The maid, Amanda Holmes, announces dinner just as Richard makes this electrifying statement.

The second act shows Nancy flattering the brothers and persuading them to cut Richard's allowance altogether and to burn his books. Allan tells Richard that by a mere technicality Richard has legal control over the finances of the whole family. In the meantime Richard finds his allowance cut off and decides to ruin the family. He tries to get Oliver to listen to him but the big brother is too engrossed in learning his speech to be given that afternoon. Richard is furious at being snubbed again so he tears up Oliver's speech and delivers the address himself saying the opposite of what the family wants him to. The curtain falls just as the family jumps on him for his oration. In the third act Richard takes charge of the family finances. Nancy, fearing that the situation has gone beyond her power, asks him to give the money back. He does gracefully, but the mother, Evodia Carlson, asks him to take control of the family instead of Oliver. He consents, but half-heartedly, after Mark tells him that Nancy has been playing with him. The last ten minutes of the play are given to Nancy's confession and Richard's relenting, with his declaration of independence as the climax.

COUNCIL CONSIDERS STORM SEWER SYSTEM

Committee of Five Named to Investigate All Angles to Proposed Project

LARGE EXPENSE INVOLVED

If Approved Relief Sewer System Will be One of City's Greatest Improvements

A committee of five aldermen, one from each ward, was named by President W. J. Lyonais of the city council to act on the Relief Sewer Committee at a meeting of the council last evening.

Upon the shoulders of this committee will rest one of the largest civic improvement projects this city has known should the council approve the installation of a storm sewer system to relieve the sewer situation in the downtown district.

The committee as named follows: W. J. Lyonais, first ward; W. J. Hall, second ward; Chris Elvig, third ward; Ernest Ritari, fourth ward; R. H. Paine, fifth ward.

Preliminary estimates of the cost of the installation of the storm sewer system were withheld until the committee makes a thorough investigation of the situation and proposed routes for the suggested system.

The cost of the improvement will be heavy, aldermen indicated at last evening's council meeting.

Two proposed routes will be considered by the committee, the one, of installing the sewer from Eighth street to the Mississippi river in the downtown area and the other from Fifth street to the fill. In either event the sewer will be laid in the alleys to prevent the tearing up of considerable paving. As proposed, the route will follow parallel to Laurel street.

On motion, the city clerk was authorized to transfer money in the sinking fund to the sinking fund commissioners as soon as the tax settlement of Crow Wing county is received.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell was instructed to estimate the cost of extending the culvert on 11th street and report to the council at its next meeting.

Alderman Chris Elvig brought before the council again the matter of repairing the Northeast Brainerd hose house. On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and W. J. Hall the matter was referred to the city property committee and aldermen of the third ward. The committee was requested to report to the next meeting.

Alderman Martin Anderson requested that street intersections be cleaned up.

"Intersections are getting bad again. The best way to handle them is to take the snow right off to the pavement and keep it off," he said.

On motion of Aldermen M. Anderson and W. J. Hall, the city engineer was instructed to clean up the intersections where needed and to keep them clean.

City Engineer Campbell reported that he had been approached by an official of the L. O. O. F. lodge here who asked permission to raise the sidewalk in front of their building on South Sixth street as the lodge contemplated considerable improvements to their building. The request was referred to the street committee and the city engineer with power to act.

City Engineer Campbell reported on the proposed new route of State

Ald Road No. 3 in Northeast as is now being considered by the county commissioners.

He stated that the plan as suggested is to extend the road from Third Avenue, N. E. along a line parallel to the paper mill spur until it joins Mill street continuing on same. The proposed new route would lessen the distance considerably from the Mississippi river bridge on the Merrifield road to downtown Brainerd.

The recommendation of Mayor F. E. Little that a license for the operation of a roller skating rink in the business section of the city be not granted was accepted by the council. The mayor stated that he did not favor the granting of a license for the rink because of the objectionable noise which appeared from it. He said he had asked the opinion of a number of business men and all had expressed disapproval of the granting of a license for a roller skating rink in the downtown district.

Frank F. Mattsen of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, asked the endorsement of the council to a bill proposing the naming of a state safety council for the protection of workmen. Cost of maintenance of the safety organization was estimated at $15,000 annually. On motion the matter was laid on the table.

A communication was received from representatives of railway employee organizations asking the council to back a proposed bill to prevent railway companies from moving ships or terminals in the state without first the consent of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission. On motion the matter was laid on the table.

Requests for renewal of oil station licenses by George Trent, Jr., and the Northwestern Oil Co., were granted by the council.

On motion of Aldermen Martin Anderson and C. G. Holmstrom the council granted permission to the City Water and Light Board to purchase ornamental street signs. The cost of the signs will be in excess of $500.

A petition for the installation of a street light on the corner of Portland avenue and 13th street was referred to the Water and Light Committee with power to act.

SWEDISH BETHANY SPECIAL MEETINGS

Rev. Edgar E. Swanson of Minneapolis is Speaker Tonight

ATTENDANCE IS GROWING

Rev. Graven of International Falls Will Assist in Services

The special meetings at the Swedish Bethany church continue every evening of this week at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. Edgar E. Swanson of Minneapolis is the speaker. Tonight there will be at the meeting a new pastor from the northern most town of Minnesota, namely Rev. Graven from International Falls. Come out and get acquainted with him.

Last Sunday a very good attendance was recorded throughout the day. Rev. Swanson had a strenuous day, speaking five times and giving strong and stirring messages for both young and old. His messages were received very attentively and a good spirit was prevailing.

Although it was severely cold last evening, a goodly number was out to hear Mr. Swanson speak on his announced subject: "A Man Who Tried to Get to Heaven Without Being Saved." He took his text from Christ's parable in Matt. 22 about the man at the marriage feast without the wedding garment and gave a stirring message showing the importance of knowing whether we are saved or not. There are two classes of people, said Mr. Swanson, who try to get to heaven without being saved, those who do it unconsciously and those who do it consciously.

Tonight Rev. Swanson will speak on the subject: "The Conversion of a Religious Man." Try to come and find out who he is. Rev. Graven will take part in the service. The services are held in English and everybody is welcome.

DONNY DUBOIS, 4, BRAVES COLD TO SEE HIS 'MUZZER'

Four year old Donald Dubois wanted to see his mother and sister. He knew they were at the hospital so he started out alone yesterday afternoon from 715 South Sixth street. He walked up Sixth street, crossed the Northern Pacific tracks and lost his direction.

He asked Mrs. Peter L. Wolvert, 223 North Second street, where the "huzzabeta" was. The boy was very cold so Mrs. Wolvert took him to her home. She was unable to understand Donny who persisted his "muzzer" and "zissster" were at the "huzzabeta" so she telephoned Chief of Police Thomas J. Templeton if he had received a report of any boy being lost.

The police official, on the suggestion by Mrs. Wolvert that the boy may mean hospital, telephoned the St. Joseph's hospital and learned that the boy's mother, Mrs. George Dubois, Southeast Brainerd, was there taking care of her little daughter, Louise, aged 14 years, who was ill.

On the request of Mrs. Dubois, Donny was taken back again to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Albert Veillette, South Sixth street.

Mrs. Veillette told the Dispatch today that Donny put on his own coat and cap about 2 p. m. and left the house without her knowledge while she was busy sewing.

Soon Donny will be taken to the hospital by his mother to see his sister. The adventure was a thrilling one to Donny but "it wuzz awful cole." His brown eyes sparkle and his sandy topped head bobs when he tells about it.

CHANGE GRID RULES ON BALL FUMBLES

NO LONG RUNS FOR TOUCHDOWNS

AFTER PICK UP

IN THE PAST FUMBLED BALL WAS FREE, EITHER TEAM MIGHT PICK IT UP

FUMBLED BALL RECOVERED BY OPPONENTS WILL BE DEAD AT POINT OF RECOVERY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

New York, Feb. 19.—Under the new football rules there will be no such thing as long runs for touchdowns after scooping up fumbles.

In the past, a ball which had been fumbled was free and might be picked up and advanced by either team. Now a fumble ball recovered by the opposing side will be dead at the point of recovery.

The fumbling eleven, however, may pick up the ball and continue its advance.

Roy Reigels' famous wrong-way run in the California-Georgia Tech game at Pasadena New Year's Day would have been impossible under the new legislation announced yesterday by the National Football Rules Committee after a three-day session at Absecon, N. J.

The new rule will not apply in case of forward or backward passes which are intercepted before striking the ground, nor will it apply to blocked kicks, which will be played as heretofore.

Three other important changes were made in the rules for 1929 as follows:

All kicks legally recovered by the kicking side may now be advanced in accordance with the uniform rules. This rule now includes free kicks and kick-offs, whereas it formerly applied to kicks from scrimmage.

On forward passes no player on the side in possession of the ball who has crossed the line of scrimmage shall interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched except in an actual attempt to catch the ball.

The try-for-point after touchdown will be made from the two-yard line instead of the three-yard line.

The question of moving the goal posts back to the goal line was brought up but it was decided to leave them where they are, 10 yards behind the goal line.

WISCONSIN GRABS 1ST PLACE IN CAGE GAMES

TEAM HAS IMPROVED CONSTANTLY SINCE LOSING TO MICHIGAN

NOW LEADS RACE IN BIG TEN BASKETBALL, TROUNCED NORTHWESTERN, 37-23

By BERT DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Chicago, Feb. 19.—Wisconsin, a team which has improved constantly since losing to Michigan early in the season, today assumed undisputed possession of first place in the Big Ten basketball race.

The Badgers went into the lead last night when they trounced Northwestern 37-23, while Michigan was losing to Illinois, 27-24, in another of the many upsets which have featured the season.

Michigan is tied with Purdue for second place. While Wisconsin has possession of the lead, the Badgers do not have clear sailing toward the championship.

Right now, Wisconsin is faced with three of its hardest games of the season. The Badgers must meet Northwestern, Purdue and Michigan.

A win over Northwestern on the latter's home floor is a man-sized job and the 14-point margin which the Badgers achieved on their home floor last night is not indicative of the kind of opposition they will face at Evanston Saturday night.

Wisconsin will have the home floor advantage in the Purdue game but against Michigan they will be playing at Ann Arbor.

The Wolverines play three of their remaining games at home and in their own trip meet Ohio, which is not capable of putting up a battle comparable to those shown by Northwestern and Michigan.

Minnesota turned in the most startling upset of last night—when the team suddenly came to life—to defeat Iowa, heretofore considered an outside championship possibility, by 34-22.

The defeat was the third the Hawkeyes have received and virtually put them out of championship running.

In the other two games of the night Purdue swamped Indiana, 30 to 16, and Ohio handed Chicago another defeat.

WHO IS TO ACT AS REFEREE AT MIAMI BEACH?

PA STIBLING BALKS AT EITHER OF THE BOSTONIANS NAMED

SHARKEY'S MANAGER HOLDS TO TERMS OF CONTRACT TO SELECT ARBITER

By FRANK GETTY

(United Press Sports Editor)

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 19.—What started out to be some harmless ballyhoo for the forthcoming Sharkey-Stirling fight developed today into a tidy little row between the managers of the rival heavyweight contenders.

The question of who is to act as referee at the bout was the subject of another heated conference, the discussion settling down to a question of interpretation of the contracts signed by the Madison Square Garden Corporation with the respective combatants.

Out of a welter of words, one thing became clear. The name of the man who eventually will be chosen as referee has not yet been made public. The Stirlings will not accept either of the Bostonians named by the Massachusetts boxing commission, and that, pa says, is that.

Johnny Buckley, voluble manager of Jack Sharkey, insisted to the United Press today that his contract specified that if the opposing factions were unable to agree upon a referee the Massachusetts commission should name the third man in the ring.

"They have named Johnny Bassil and Jack Sheehan, and that's all there is to it, except to decide which shall be the referee and which the alternate," Buckley declared.

"Nothing of the sort," countered the elder Stirling, sticking out his chin and assuming a truculent expression worthy of his husky young son. "The Massachusetts commission was asked to name a referee and an alternate who would be acceptable to both parties. The commission has named Bassil and Sheehan, but neither is acceptable to us."

As for Dempsey, he views the quarrel with an amused tolerance. He regards the flurry of words as so much more publicity for the fight. The seat sales are soaring beyond the fondest hopes of Jack and his associates, and he declines to worry

Impatient Griselda

by Dorothy Scarborough

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

IRENE ROBELINE was secretly in love with Guinn Holden, a handsome young Texas minister. But Guinn married Lilith, a beautiful, gay and coquettish blonde, who died a year later when the second Lilith was born. Irene then marries Guinn, turning down Will Lundy, who was in love with her. For eighteen years she struggled valiantly as the wife of Holden to win his heart, but she always knew that he was really in love with the "white and gold" ghost of the dead Lilith. It was the grown-up Lilith, now out of college, beautiful as her mother had been, but selfish and cold, who succeeded to her mother's place in her father's heart. Tina, Ross, Lundy and Patricia, Irene's own children by Holden, were all secondary to the proud Lilith in everything in the parson's household. Tina wore her cast-off clothes at college and worked at home, while Lilith visited. When Lilith became engaged to Roger Devereaux, son of wealthy parents, Irene was happy. Tina, the Cinderella girl, would then have her chance. But when a parishioner dies leaving $2,000 to her father Lilith prevails upon him to let her postpone the wedding to have a year of vocal study in New York. Her letters told of her dreams come true—freedom, broadened horizons, the exhilaration of the great city that fascinated her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXII. SHE wrote gay, chatty letters to Roger, to keep him from being restless, but she was cautious not to reveal too much of her enthusiasm, for fear he might come and try to sweep her back to Texas and her marriage before she was ready. "Often she asked herself what lay behind the alluring distance of that pleasure year. Was it Roger, after all? Probably, but not for sure."

One day her voice teacher had let her sing a rollicking negro folk song after her lesson. Another girl was there, a slim, gray-eyed boyish creature, with shingled hair and a fresh, rosy skin, who went down the stairs with Lilith after the lesson was over.

"I'm Vivien Winthrop," she said casually.

"And I'm Lilith Holden." They surveyed each other with the naive scrutiny, the keen but casual air with which two attractive girls size each other up at first meeting, with potential friendships, potential rivalries, attraction, antagonism, flickering in their crossed glances, as if they were saying, each to herself of the other, "Who are you? Shall I like you?"

Then the two smiled spontaneously.

"Have you been studying with Mr. Franks long?" asked Lilith.

"About two years. I haven't any voice at all, really, just a funny little squeak. But it amuses my fond father to hear me try. And you?"

"I've just come. I'm from Texas."

"Did you sing down there?"

Lilith laughed. "If you call a solo in the Baptist church singing, I did. That also to please a de-luded father—as mine happens to be the minister."

Her new acquaintance scanned her with sympathetic amusement. "You don't look like a preacher's child."

"Thanks for the flattery."

"Doesn't it cramp your style?" Lilith gave a shudder. "Horribly. My most innocent diversion is censored by the Ladies' Aid, but the deacons discuss only the serious offense. I escaped just in time to avoid being turned out of the church."

"Would that be a calamity?"

"Not to me, but a disgrace to the family. My relations are really worthy people, especially my step-mother."

Vivien Winthrop looked at her with added interest. "I see. Won't you come with me and drown the thought of the deacons in a cup of tea?"

"Love to! But can't we drown the Ladies' Aid first? Women are always more deadly than men."

"I've found them so. Come on, let's catch a bus."

Over their tea at the pumpkin-yellow tea room they gave each other offhand bits of information.

now I'd like to go back in—only I don't know the ceremonial for that."

"Couldn't you just announce that you were in—like a divorce rather carelessly, were of the de-ceptive simplicity that only excellent taste and plenty of money could turn out. Not much feminine lure here. Not a bit of a flirt—too frank for that. But she'd make a good pal, and an ideal foil for a Lilith."

So, as the two parted after their tea, Lilith said with her charming smile, "It would be jolly to know you, Miss Winthrop. Won't you come to see me some time?"

"Yes, indeed, if I may."

"I'm in a cigar box of an apartment on Morningside Heights, with some friends from home. Mrs. Dean is chaperoning me. And you must come to see me. I want my Dad to hear your dark songs," said Vivien enthusiastically.

As Lilith rode home on the top of a bus, she felt fluttering waves of joy run through her at the thought of what might open up for her through this new girl's interest in her. Heaven be praised that the African race had been imported into America and was of a tenebrous nature. If anything came of this, she'd send Sheba a present.

Something did come of it, and soon—an invitation to dinner with the Winthrops.

Just two or three other people besides Mother and Dad and me," Vivien's note ran. The hour was eight o'clock, and the address in the East Seventies.

Delicious excitement such as she had never known trembled over Lilith. Heretofore she had been too poised, too cool, too sure of herself to be shaken by the tremors that most girls know at twenty.

The possibilities that life had offered her before had never seemed worth her thrills and ardors, but this, now, was different. Who could tell what magic might come out of it?

She wrote to Tina: "I feel like a firefly at thought of it. I'm simply quivering with light and warmth at the idea. Silly? Yes, but I adore being silly."

To Roger she wrote cannily that she was going to dine with a girl who took voice lessons from her own instructor. "You'd like her, Roger, she's so nice and unaffected."

He would like her, too, she meditated, and Vivien would admire Roger. Maybe they could arrange a swap—one young Texas lawyer in the making, for one New Yorker whose great-grandfather had known how to save.

Then she laughed softly at the thought of Roger caring for anybody but herself. Good old Roger, loyal as a family dog. He'd wag happily at a careless word from her. It was better, maybe, for a husband not to be too-demanding.

CHANGE GRID RULES ON BALL FUMBLES

NO LONG RUNS FOR TOUCHDOWNS AFTER PICK UP

IN THE PAST FUMBLING BALL WAS FREE, EITHER TEAM MIGHT PICK IT UP

FUMBLING BALL RECOVERED BY OPPONENTS WILL BE DEAD AT POINT OF RECOVERY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

New York, Feb. 19.—Under the new football rules there will be no such thing as long runs for touchdowns after scooping up fumbles.

In the past, a ball which had been fumbled was free and might be picked up and advanced by either team. Now a fumble ball recovered by the opposing side will be dead at the point of recovery.

The fumbling eleven, however, may pick up the ball and continue its advance.

Roy Reigel's famous wrong-way run in the California-Georgia Tech game at Pasadena New Year's Day would have been impossible under the new legislation announced yesterday by the National Football Rules Committee after a three-day session at Absecon, N. J.

The new rule will not apply in case of forward or backward passes which are intercepted before striking the ground, nor will it apply to blocked kicks, which will be played as heretofore.

Three other important changes were made in the rules for 1929 as follows:

All kicks legally recovered by the kicking side may now be advanced in accordance with the uniform rules. This rule now includes free kicks and kick-offs, whereas it formerly applied to kicks from scrimmage.

On forward passes no player on the side in possession of the ball who has crossed the line of scrimmage shall interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched except in an actual attempt to catch the ball.

The try-for-point after touchdown will be made from the two-yard line instead of the three-yard line.

The question of moving the goal posts back to the goal line was brought up but it was decided to leave them where they are, 10 yards behind the goal line.

"I've just come. I'm from Texas."

"Did you sing down there?" Lilith laughed. "If you call a solo in the Baptist church singing, I did. That also to please a deluded father—as mine happens to be the minister."

Her new acquaintance scanned her with sympathetic amusement. "You don't look like a preacher's child."

"Thanks for the flattery."

"Doesn't it cramp your style?" Lilith gave a shudder. "Horribly. My most innocent diversion is censored by the Ladies' Aid, but the deacons discuss only the serious offense. I escaped just in time to avoid being turned out of the church."

"Would that be a calamity?"

"Not to me, but a disgrace to the family. My relations are really worthy people, especially my step-mother."

Vivien Winthrop looked at her with added interest. "I see. Won't you come with me and drown the thought of the deacons in a cup of tea?"

"Love to! But can't we drown the Ladies' Aid first? Women are always more deadly than men."

"I've found them so. Come on, let's catch a bus."

Over their tea at the pumpkin-yellow tea room they gave each other candid bits of information.

now I'd like to go back in—only I don't know the ceremonial for that."

"Couldn't you just announce that you were in—like a divorce or a broken engagement?" laughed Lilith. "But what will you do then?"

"Maybe go to Europe for next year, and after that take up courses at Columbia and fit myself to do something, some sort of work. That would be really interesting, and it isn't that I've been a flop in playing around, either. I've had a gay time."

"I bet you have," said Lilith, with an edge of envy in her tone. She studied this contradictory creature, this girl who was fitted by beauty and refinement as well as by birth to be admitted to inner circles, who had plenty of money, and yet who wanted to work instead of to play. Yet she was obviously all right. She would be a good person to cultivate. Her clothes, though worn rather carelessly, were of the deceptive simplicity that only excellent taste and plenty of money could turn out. Not much feminine lure here. Not a bit of a flirt—too frank for that. But she'd make a good pal, and an ideal foil for a Lilith.

So, as the two parted after their tea, Lilith said with her charming smile, "It would be jolly to know you, Miss Winthrop. Won't you come to see me some time?"

"Yes, indeed, if I may."

"I'm in a cigar box of an apartment on Morningside Heights, with some friends from home. Mrs. Dean is chaperoning me."

"And you must come to see me. I want my Dad to hear your dark songs," said Vivien enthusiastically.

As Lilith rode home on the top of a bus, she felt fluttering waves of joy run through her at thought of what might open up for her through this new girl's interest in her. Lilith had been raised that the African race had been imported into America and was of a tenebrous nature. If anything came of this, she'd send Sheba a present.

Something did come of it, and soon—an invitation to dinner with the Winthrops.

"Just two or three other people besides Mother and Dad and me," Vivien's note ran. "The hour was eight o'clock, and the address in the East Seventies."

Delicious excitement such as she had never known trembled over Lilith. Heretofore she had been too poised, too cool, too sure of herself to be shaken by the tremors that most girls know at twenty.

The possibilities that life had offered her before had never seemed worth her thrills and ardors, but this, now, was different. Who could tell what magic might come out of it?

She wrote to Tina: "I feel like a fiery at thought of it. I'm simply quivering with light and warmth at the idea. Silly? Yes, but I adore being silly."

Tina wrote her warmly that she was going to dine with a girl who took voice lessons from her own instructor. "You'd like her, Roger, she's so nice and unaffected."

He would like her, too, she meditated, and Vivien would admire Roger. Maybe they could arrange a swap—one young Texas lawyer in the making, for one New Yorker whose great-grandfather had known how to save.

Then she laughed softly at the thought of Roger caring for anybody but herself. Good old Roger, loyal as a family dog. He'd wag happily at a careless word from her. It was better, maybe, for a husband not to be too-demanding.

Famous Cough Prescription

Contains No Chloroform Or Other Harmful Drugs

The use of medicines containing chloroform or dope to relieve coughing is dangerous and unnecessary. Now anyone can get quick relief with a famous prescription called Thoxine, which contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and is safe and pleasant to take.

Thoxine is thoroughly efficient because it has a double action—soothes the irritation—goes direct to the internal cause, and stops the cough almost instantly. Far superior to cough syrups and patent medicines.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere sell
